1. The airfield was north of Kharkov (36°15'N/50°00'E), Ukrainian SSR, east of the road to Lysgorod (36°35'N/50°35'E). An aircraft plant was east of the road, near kilometer station 3. Five or six destroyed hangars and several barracks buildings, occupied by air force personnel, were in the area just north of the plant.
2. The airfield was occupied by twin-engine aircraft.
3. It was observed in the summer and fall of 1948 that individual parachute jumps were made regularly.

25X1A

Comment:

- a. The buildings thought to be an aircraft plant probably are a repair plant. No aircraft plant is known to be there.
- b. The information that the airfield was occupied by twin-engine aircraft and that only individual parachute jumps were seen indicates that opportunities for observation by source were limited. According to other reports a pilot school for combat aircraft training is assumed to be stationed at the airfield.
